After 9 weeks of unprecedented numbers, I've had enough. I'm done. (I'm so tired of typing that, I had to double check my post. If I get a single solitary complaint about me using "enough," I'll come back to this post and kill you). I realized after this weekend that I am no longer in California - I'm in Wisconsin. No, I'm not talking about a different state, I'm talking about another dimension. I'm a terrible person. I like to believe I'm pretty good at my job, I'm good at it, but I'm not. (Do you want to know what's worse, you're good at it). I know as a person who did it for a number of years, I'm really not great at it. I'm really not. I've got some good, and some bad moments - but they're rare. But the thing that happened this weekend? Unprecedented. First I'd like to say that the reason that my numbers went down this week was due to the fact that a lot of people in my world were affected by the holidays. My family, many of my client's families, and the number of working people who are on vacation this time of year. I'm not going to let them down - so if you just arrived here in my world tonight and are wondering why there are no posts, give me a break. The numbers I have to work with now are so much smaller than last week. I'm still doing a hell of a lot, but the biggest busts are not showing up. As a result - the quality of posts isn't
